

If a letter from Elvis came to your house,
you wouldn't believe it.

(Right?)

Anyone can send a letter with whatever return address they want — email is no different!

Sending email with a false return address is called spoofing.
It's common, and it's hard to prevent -- contact the sender if you receive something suspicious to see if it's really from them!
